

The Office of Educator Certification recognizes the national certificate in school psychologist (NCSP) issued through the National Association of School Psychologists (NASP) for certification purposes in South Carolina. If applicable, a copy of this certificate should be enclosed along with all other application materials and documentation when applying for a certificate as a school psychologist in South Carolina. The requirements for the NCSP parallel certification requirements in South Carolina, which include the completion of a state-approved training program based on the standards of the NASP, and a score of 660 on the Praxis examination in School Psychology.
